(From the Office of Senator Owen Brewster)

Bowdoin and Maine To Divide

At Brunswick

Responding to appeals by the Maine delegation in Congress, Navy Department Officials have recognized the importance of G. I. programs at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, and the University of Maine, at Orono. As a result the Navy Department has instructed the Commandant at the Brunswick Naval Air Base to invite the President of Bowdoin and the President of the University of Maine to Brunswick for a conference to determine a mutual division of the facilities at the Air Base recently discontinued and see if it is possible for both colleges to use the Base for training purposes.

Ever since the war preparations began Bowdoin has had a naval auxiliary training unit. It now purposes to carry on the unit for the G. I. educational program. At the University of Maine some 1,500 G. I.'s were registered for education courses. It was originally thought that these courses could be held at the Air Transport Base at Dow Field, Bangor, and to use the housing and certain existing facilities. The War Department, however, ruled that a fighter squadron is to be located at Dow Field, and that when this unit has been installed, the entire facilities of the Base are to be used by the squadron and that it is not consistent with War Department usages to permit outside non-military activities to be carried on. This was a sad blow to both the University of Maine and waiting G. I.'s. The University of Maine found it impossible to find sufficient housing and finally turned to the possibility of sharing some of the facilities at the Brunswick Naval Air Base, though it was known at that time that Bowdoin College had applied for the establishment for its naval unit at that Base.

Conference and Surveys for G. I. Education

President Sills of Bowdoin College and Dr. Hauck, President of the University of Maine will take their experts with them to this conference at which time a detailed survey will be made of the base to see if it is possible to reach a mutual agreement in regard to a division of the property and facilities to house and carry on the activities and educational program of both Bowdoin College and the University of Maine. The outcome is largely awaited by the two schools and more especially by the G. I.'s who are anxious to continue their education.

New Industrial Possibilities for Maine

Inquiries are now being made at the office of the Maine delegation in Congress in regard to business locations in Maine. Now comes Colonel H. S. Evans of the Chemical Warfare Services soon to be discharged from the Army who is renewing his interest and inquiries in regard to developing and locating an industrial plant in Maine for the manufacture of birch bark stoppers and caps and other items heretofore made of cork.

When the war came on the export of cork, principally from Portugal was greatly reduced and caused great hardship in those countries using cork for insulation and other purposes. Colonel Evans has developed his substitute to a point where he has successfully demonstrated that a birch bark stopper and insulating board can be successfully made. It proves to be almost as light and almost as resilient as cork itself. The Colonel feels that further scientific research development is necessary and that it might be possible to complete these details in one of the laboratories in Maine. He has chosen Maine for the location of his plant. He claims that his preliminary shows that millions of

A three day rain with little intermission, starting early Sunday morning brought a welcome end to several weeks of dry weather with many hot days.

The use of hose for lawn and garden was stopped by the water company last Friday when a break was discovered in the main pipe with the water supply getting low.

There was a picnic Wednesday at Saunders' Camp, Songo Pond for the Junior Department of the Methodist Church, meeting at the church for transportation at four o'clock. Lunch and punch was furnished. The colored children who are guests in town were special guests at the picnic.

Week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson were: Miss Rose Lloyd of New Orleans, La.; Miss Janet Hodgdon of Bridgeport, Conn.; Miss Mary Gibbs of Newton Center, Mass.; Miss Letitia Watson of Georgetown, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Gibbs and daughter, Nancy of Peabody, Mass.; and Guy Gibbs of Wilton, Maine.

There will be a picnic supper for the members of the American Legion, Auxiliary and their families at 4:30 P. M. on Sunday, July 29, at the Pavilion, Songo Pond. Beach recreations have been made and a boat is available. Beans, salads and coffee will be served. Bring your own box lunch, fork, spoon, plate, and cup. Those who do not have transportation, meet at the A. L. Home at 2:30.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS MEET HERE

A meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee was held in the Community Room, Bethel, on Tuesday evening, July 23rd.

State Committeewoman Lila Stovel, State Committeeman Paul Noyes and several Town Committee Chairmen and party workers were present. The Whirlwind Political Tour of Oxford County in which Senator Owen Brewster, Governor Horace Hildreth, Rep. Robert Hall, county candidates, committee members and guests will take part is to be on August 20th and 21st.

Plans were discussed for this tour as well as for rallies which will be held in August. The next meeting of the committee will be in Hiram. A supper and rally will be held at this time and announcement will be made as soon as arrangements are completed for the affair.

GOING TO A FIRE?

Some people may not believe it, but these remarks are not aimed at any individual. It has happened all too often that after an alarm for fire has been sounded, the rush of firemen toward the fire station creates a needless traffic hazard.

The fact that a member of a fire company is expected "to repair, upon call, forthwith" to his apparatus does not justify excessive speed which it does by another person would be called reckless driving. Under these circumstances the liberal sounding of the horn cannot clear such a driver of blame for damage to another's car, injury to its passengers, or to pedestrians or children.

pounds of inner and intermediate bark layers are wasted annually in Maine. These layers would tend to turn this waste into a portable and useful industry. Samples of birch bark products have been shown in Washington to the War and Navy Departments and Members of Congress and produced a very favorable reaction.

The industry may be a worthy successor to the various birch bark canoe business carried on by the Indians in the Colonial and pre-Colonial days in Maine.

Senator Brewster Returns From Visit

Senator Brewster was back in Washington this past week after a brief aerial tour of the Pacific to observe the Atomic Bomb Test at Bikini on July 1st and to represent "the Senate at the Independence Day ceremonies for the Philippines in Manila on July the fourth.

Senator Brewster also flew to San Francisco for luncheon with General Marshall for a discussion of the turbulent Chinese situation and to Tokyo for dinner with General MacArthur, where a most encouraging report was given on the Japanese situation.

The remainder of the Senatorial party continued on an inspection trip around the world, while Senator Brewster flew back from Tokyo, covering the 10,000 mile journey in 52 hours.

Adjustment

It is now expected that Congress will recess or adjourn on July 26th after one of the most strenuous sessions in the history of Congress. It is expected that all members of the Maine delegation will immediately return to Maine to engage in the campaign which terminates in the election September 6th.

The Maine Delegation has undoubtedly made its best work contribution to Congress. Members of the Maine Delegation serve on Commerce, Finance, Library, Naval Affairs, Territories and Insular Affairs, Special Investigation of the National Defense Program, Special Investigation of the Treatment of Resources, Appropriations, Foreign Relations, Interstate Commerce, Patents, The Rules Committee, The Special Commission of Wild Resources, all in the Senate. The Judiciary, Invalid Pensions, Merchant Marine and Fisheries and Naval Affairs in the House. The Maine Senators and Congressmen have worked earnestly and diligently on these committees and have earned prominent places during the performance of their Congressional duties.

In addition to all of these committee activities the Members have held many Delegation meetings for the purpose of discussing and acting upon numerous problems concerning the welfare of Maine and her people.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I see where the government is going into the fertilizer business to help agriculture it says. It will convert ammunition plants into fertilizer factories. The fertilizer will be for Germany and Japan and away places. So, day by day a new idea is cooked up that keeps our U. S. A. nose to the grindstone.

And when the foreign countries get up steam via our fertilizers and start raising excess crops they will undersell and take away the U. S. A. farmers' market. A fine kettle of fish it will be then—here.

Sounds kinda goofy, says Henry. But why, he says, don't they just leave the powder and dynamite plants and sell the lumber and start raising excess crops to build a house, but not Henry. I says, if they tear down the plants where will the 3 million excess boys and girls in Govt jobs go, where will they find soft swivel chairs, free gas, traveling expenses and so much ease and comfort. It is like Mussolini shoots after the first war when it started in the power business—and nice jobs and a good time were had by all—and still are.

Yours with the low down, JO SEIRA

15 KILLED IN MAINE AUTO ACCIDENTS IN JUNE

During the month of June this year there were 14 fatal automobile accidents which resulted in the death of 15 people. There were 6 drivers, 4 passengers, 4 pedestrians and one bicycle rider.

Twelve of these accidents occurred in rural areas and 2 in urban sections, ten occurred in daylight hours and four after dark. The principal causes were excessive speed, defective equipment and the improper conduct of pedestrians.

America's vacation bound travelers are rolling across the country seeking rest from their daily cares of life, where they can relax and enjoy fishing, swimming, golf and the quiet contemplation of the beauties of nature. That is the life thousands will be looking for every week this summer.

Maine, with its many natural advantages for an out of doors vacation, will attract heavy streams of tourist travel. With the heavy increase in summer travel, accidents are more likely to increase. Being realistic enough to foresee that accidents will happen and being optimistic enough to feel they can be prevented, we want to give a few suggestions as to how one can enjoy summer driving and still return home without a mishap.

First of all, we would like to advise you to be comfortable. A simple wardrobe is the motorist's best guarantee against discomfort. Light-weight clothing allows proper ventilation and reflects rather than absorbs sunlight.

If you expect to make a rather long trip, it is advisable to keep posted on the weatherman's predictions. If you read in the newspaper or heard over the radio that you are to have a heat wave, avoid staying on the road for a long stretch without a rest. Hot weather driving can wear down a driver's resistance fast. Stop occasionally for a rest. Get out of the car and stretch. Avoid eating a heavy meal just before driving.

Whether you expect to take only a short trip now and then or an extended journey across several states, be sure your car is in proper mechanical condition. A check-up in a garage may prevent a breakdown on the highway and any kind of car trouble causes inconvenience and delay.

Good tires are absolutely essential and almost as important as good tires are proper inflation pressures.

No trip should be made without good brakes. On a long trip check your brakes at the start of each day's travel. When you feel the should be checked, don't take chances on driving without adequate adjustment.

With a car in good mechanical condition, the responsibility for safety rests upon the driver.

L. George I. Shaw, Director, Division of Traffic & Safety, Maine State Police.

Veterans Urged To Seek Jobs

Readjustment allowances are poor substitutes for jobs, L. C. Fortier, Maine Unemployment Commission chairman advised Maine veterans today.

"These readjustment allowances, like unemployment compensation, should be considered as insurance, and used only as a last resort in cases of dire emergency," Fortier said.

"An unemployed veteran is his own best employment agent," Fortier pointed out, in urging Maine veterans now claiming readjustment allowances for unemployment to make diligent search for jobs themselves.

"Thousands of jobs open a year ago have been filled by workers released from the armed services and at the present time veterans have not the wide range of choice which was available a year ago," Fortier said.

"But in spite of the increased number of workers available people by the hundreds are being hired every day," he said, "and if an unemployed veteran is to get a job he must be at the right place at the right time. More registration at an employment office is no guarantee of a job."

"The veteran serves himself best by adding his own job hunting efforts to those of the employment service."

"The veteran who unnecessarily delays his readjustment to civilian employment does himself an injustice."

"There is little prospect that jobs will be more plentiful in the near future, and at the same time more workers are becoming available for those openings."

"Readjustment allowances, like unemployment compensation are limited, and may be used up just when those eligible need them most," Fortier said.

Fortier added that families, friends, and home communities can render invaluable service to the great group of young veterans who have had no previous civilian occupations or job hunting experience. Those who have had years of experience in various types of employment and in the technique of job hunting can help thousands of these young Maine veterans in getting the start which they need so badly, the NTC chairman added.

PERSISTENT WOODS FIRE

The fire pumper crew was called Monday afternoon to the "Chain-Fire" hill road where the woods fire of the preceding Tuesday had broken out again. This time the fire had gone in the ground several feet and set a spruce tree afire. The firemen were called to the scene upon a silent alarm Saturday night.

RECORD EARLY POTATO CROP

The early potato crop of the United States this year will be at an all-time high of 70 to 75 million bushels, according to estimates that have been received at the Oxford County Office of the Agricultural Conservation Association.

The County Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Evelyn Lyman, states that home makers can conserve vital foods for shipment abroad and at the same time they can add variety and nourishment to menus by liberal use of local food crops.

Miss Lyman says that one small portion of potatoes approximately equals a slice of bread in food value. The potato also offers some vitamin B. Here are four general ways that potatoes may be used to good advantage:

1. Top meat pies and other baked dishes with fluffy mashed potatoes instead of pastry crust.

2. Bake creamed meat, chicken or fish on mashed potato instead of on toast.

3. In place of poached eggs on toast try eggs baked in nest of mashed potatoes.

4. At breakfast, occasionally let potatoes replace wheat cereal, toast or biscuit.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Excess Profits Tax Is Urged; Tourists' 'Victory Vacations' Are Crowding America's Parks

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

EDITOR'S NOTE: When columns are expanded in this column, they are those of the Western Newspaper Union and not necessarily of this newspaper.

IOWA HARVEST . . . This picture was taken six miles southeast of Clarinda, Iowa, where a tractor-drawn binder is harvesting a field of small grain. Iowa expects to harvest the best crop in its history of big crops.

PROFITS TAX: Urged by Eccles

Renewal of the excess profits tax, a means of counteracting excessive price advances should the OPA bill be scrapped is being urged by Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the federal reserve board, and others. Pressure will be put on the treasury and the White House to bring it about to curb profits and so as a deterrent to labor demands for higher wages.

Many believe that repeal of the profits levy provided a major impetus to union efforts to gain wage concessions worth all the savings to the big corporations.

Opponents of the excess profits tax believe that, regardless of the treasury and the White House, congress will not accept a proposal to scrap excess profits as was done during the war. Chairman Robert H. Taft, chairman of the powerful conservative ways and means committee, is known to be against the profits levy, and he, with others, can provide a great obstacle to such a plan.

VACATIONS: Farther the Better

Travel-hungry Americans are taking their "victory vacations" in record numbers, with "the farther away, the better" as their motto, a mid-season survey shows. "Westward Ho" is another trend, with Yellowstone park far in the lead as the nation's favorite vacation spot.

A count of visitors at Yellowstone from the beginning of the travel year on October 1, 1945, to June 30, this year, indicates that 150,000 persons have entered the park in this current period, compared with 147,716 in the 1944-45 period before the war. In June alone, 158,358 scenic beauty seekers passed the park gates.

Colorado, the Black Hills and other western tourist spots show record numbers of visitors. Next to the west are the northern states of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. Boat cruises are more popular than for many years on the Great Lakes and the larger rivers.

A noticeable trend this year is the enthusiasm for automobile touring, which was derided most people during the war years. Owners of seasonal resorts are planning to remain open longer this year to take care of staggered vacations.

CHINA: And UNRRA Relief

Charges of misuse of UNRRA supplies by the Chinese government for political purposes brought about suspension of relief shipments to China except for emergency supplies. Chiang's government immediately protested the suspension as unfair.

A Chinese government spokesman conceded that there was some "petty pilfering" and that poor people sometimes sell the more expensive foods received from UNRRA and buy cheaper food. He stated the quantity involved was small.

Members of the senate appropriations committee in Washington immediately called upon Florio II, LaGuardia, director general of UNRRA, to explain why he cut off relief and rehabilitation supplies to China. LaGuardia stated that shipments would be resumed as soon as Chinese ports were cleared of jammed supplies.

ATOMIC RAYS MAY SAVE BOY'S LIFE

The marvel of nuclear fission is to be used to fight one of mankind's deadliest diseases, leukemia. No recovery from the disease has ever been recorded. Always the white blood cells, which multiply many thousands of times, have brought death. Perhaps atomic energy, or nuclear fission, is powerful enough to arrest the growth of these white blood cells. At least, that is what the physicians are hoping in the case of Alan James Habermeyer, eight, of Aurora, Ill., who has been down to the West coast where atomic energy will be used in an attempt to save his life. Authorities at the American Medical association center said they believed it to be the first time that nuclear fission had ever been used to fight leukemia.

OPA BILL: Emasculation

Whether or not the new OPA bill being passed by congress will leave any price control to be administered is a 64-dollar question. Here is an exemption box score at its very beginning in the senate: Exemption for meat and poultry, by Senator Wherry, Neb., passed 49 to 26; Exemption for milk and dairy products, by Senator Wherry, passed 51 to 27; Exemption for cottonseed, soybeans and their products, by Senator Eastland, Miss., passed 42 to 34; Exemption for petroleum and its products, by Senator Moore, Okla., adopted 40 to 30.

WHITNEY: Truman Is Beaten

A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, testifying before a house labor subcommittee, reiterated that his union had $2,500,000 which could be used to fight Mr. Truman in event he is a candidate for re-election in 1948. Whitney now feels, however, that the President's "mistakes" are so great that no funds need be used. "We will not need to spend any money to defeat Truman in 1948," Whitney originally made his pledge to spend $2,500,000 to defeat Mr. Truman in protest against what he considered unfair treatment by the President in settling the railroad strike.

LABOR: Will Fight

American labor will "rebel and will never yield" to the attacks now being made on it by reactionaries in congress and state legislatures, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared in an address to the convention of the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers in Chicago recently.

American workers are determined to maintain their standards of living at any cost, Green said. He predicted "rising unrest and strikes" unless prices are brought under control. Green said the AFL would attack the validity of the Hobbs bill in the courts, believing it to be unconstitutional.

Labor in many cities has organized to bring back price controls on most commodities.

ROUND THE WORLD . . . Larry Highower, 46, is going around the world pushing a wheelbarrow. He plans to board a boat at San Francisco for the Orient, then trek across the big continent to Portugal, board another ship to New York, then push the wheelbarrow back to Ellensburg, Wash., his starting place.

FARM PRICES: Up or Down?

What farm prices will be within a few months is a 64-dollar question. The OPA is off and they could go sky-high. The government isn't anxious to continue parity payments, and the price of farm products could go down, down, down. Might they seem to be undecided which way they will go.

One day the headlines will state: "Farm Prices Up." But the next day the same newspaper will proclaim: "Corn Off Five Cents." "Oats Off Five Cents." "Barley Sags: Cash Grains Lower." "Sharp Egg Loss." At the same time cotton may have advanced five dollars a bale!

A potential sharp reduction in the feed use of grain because of the heavy liquidation of livestock after OPA died resulted in much pressure on corn and oats particularly, two of the main feed crops.

Should farm prices continue to go down while other prices go up, it is feared in many circles that another squeeze, such as that during the twenties, might force congress to come to the aid of farmers by pegging prices or continuing support loans.

TERMINAL PAY: For Nation's EM

The terminal leave pay bill for enlisted men in all of the armed services is moving along steadily on Capitol Hill in Washington. It is backed by the administration and appears to have no formidable opposition from any quarter. Cost of the bill is estimated at from $4 billion to $5 billion dollars, and will give enlisted men terminal leave pay such as is now enjoyed only by officers.

Washington Digest World's Greatest Capital Has Its Seamy Side Too!

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1616 Eye Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON.—A boy joined the staff of a four-page paper of which he was one day to become editor.

The office was a rat-infested building whose notable characteristics, he later said, were "sewer gas, rats, dirt, overgrown rowdy newsmen who had to be held in check by a long whip and fire-arms," and it was "positively dangerous at times to go into the alley which they infested, leading to the composing room."

The town as the boy had grown up in it was a straggling overgrown country village "with zigzag grades, no sewerage, no street cars, no water supply except from pumps and springs, unimproved reservations, second-rate dwellings and streets of mud and mire."

That doesn't sound like the nation's capital whose budget for the coming year is $76,755,000—but that was the way it was in 1858 as described by the editor of the Washington Evening Star, Theodore Noyes, who died early this month.

He joined the paper in 1877. Except for the Australian capital of Canberra which arose almost as Camelot at a wave of Merlin's wand, there is nothing to compare with the bizarre history of a city whose site was based on a political deal and no city which has gone through more vicissitudes than this Baghdad-on-the-Potomac.

No city was ever more magnificently planned, or more discreditably neglected in its early days, as Mr. Noyes' description indicates. Today, as the undisputed capital of the world, it still has to battle with a grudging congress for its budget. It remains the chief city of the greatest democratic republic whose 93,000,000 citizens have no voice in their own government and whose citizenship itself is a bar to the basic privilege of a democracy—the ballot.

Mr. Noyes was, as is the newspaper he served, a Washington institution. He will be remembered for his long campaign to give Washington a vote in congressional and national matters.

Rats Were Menace To City's Health

Some time ago I had occasion to mention the invasion of Washington by rats and how the city hired a modern Pled Piper who has done an effective, if silent, job. This was brought to my mind recently when I encountered a fat, black cat on my way to work early one morning. The cat had a gully look, and I had a hunch he had spent the night in riotous living and was merely sneaking in to change his collar.

However, the cat's presence caused by the rat-invasion in which, believe it or not, a baby's hand was eaten brought hasty action and I see that it was considered worthy of comment by experts, including the editors of the magazine of the American Museum of Natural History.

The campaign began when a case of typhus which is spread by fleas and mites on rats, was discovered. Traps set in the neighborhood caught a number of rats whose blood was typhus-infected. The United States Public Health service got busy, shocked to learn that the scourge of Europe two centuries ago was a possibility right here in our fair capital.

An expert was called in. He first scouted up all points where commercial transportation entered the city. Then 300 traps were set up in the zone where the infection had been found. Five days later the traps were taken in and the area was thoroughly dusted with DDT, the insecticide which the army perfected. Next red-quill bait was distributed. It kills rats, but not pets or children who might pick up the bait.

In places where there was no danger to human beings the deadly "1080" was distributed. The campaign was successful. Meanwhile, a clean-up of potential rat-breeding premises was started with court orders to enforce it. Today Washington has a complete scientific rat-control program which will cost us about $75,000 annually.

However, it still leaves a few rats for energetic cats.

In 1940, 26 million votes; 1942, 28 million; 1944, 48 million.

BARBS . . . by Baukhage

The big batter-and-biscuit man from Texas who knew how to say it with flour, got tired of saying no to OPA.

There is an old Spanish proverb that says: "Make a bridge of silver for a flying enemy." Maybe the United Nations could get rid of France that way if they can't find any other.

War Profiteering Will Be Scandal

The juicy scandal uncovered by the senate war investigating committee in which "profiteering at its worst," as Senator Mead called it, was exposed, is, I fear, only the beginning.

Any moment I expect to hear an explosion in connection with surplus property. War breeds waste, and the cloak of patriotic endeavor as Samuel Johnson indicated, even more bluntly, often covers skulduggery.

The same thing happened after the last war, and on a smaller scale, after all wars. But what is probably making people squirm all over Washington is the revelation of the fact that telephone wires were pretty generally tapped, and heaven knows what may be in the FBI files. It is a strange thing about the telephone. People have just come to take for granted that because you can't see anybody on the line, nobody is there.

I wouldn't be surprised to learn that telephone conversations with most of the government departments are being recorded right now. I have reason to believe that when the question of installing these recorders in the White House was brought up, it was flatly turned down. White House employees have a long and excellent record for fidelity. Of course they are carefully screened, and when the campaign to get everybody fingerprinted (an excellent idea if you have nothing to conceal about your past and no plans for an over-adventurous future) was begun, the White House employees voluntarily came forward and offered their thumbs, fingers and hands for the ink-pad.

'When the People Vote, They Win'

The June "Economic Outlook," published by the Congress of Industrial Organizations, contains an article entitled "When the People Vote—They Win." That might be interpreted in more ways than one. The article points out that an "off year" is so designated politically not only because the presidency is not at stake, but because the politicians know that general apathy on the part of the voter has marked those elections in the past: 1938 (off) thirty million voters went to the polls; 1940 (on) fifty million voters; 1942 (off) twenty-eight million; 1944 (on) forty-eight million.

The CIO takes the attitude that what the people as a whole want is what they (the CIO) want, and that the people get what they want when they vote for it. They say: "Mass registration and mass voting is the best guarantee of liberal progressive government."

They might also add that if you want conservative rather than liberal progressive government, you have to vote for it, too. In any case you can't get what you want unless you go after it. The "Outlook" prints a table showing how the vote shifted in certain districts in off-years. The table showed that when the vote fell off, it was the Democratic vote. Districts which swung from Democratic to Republican candidates in most cases shifted with a decrease in the total vote.

"The Republican vote remained relatively stable, while the Democratic vote dropped sharply." Does this prove that Democrats are sleeper than Republicans, or that the Republican is a creature of habit?

In 1940, 26 million votes; 1942, 28 million; 1944, 48 million.

Migratory Butterflies

Of the 125,000 species of butterflies and moths, probably a thousand make migratory flights from which only about 25 species return.

Among the hardiest is the painted lady (Vanessa cardui) the one-way migrations of which have been known to cover distances of more than 2,000 miles, to have taken 14 days and nights of continuous flying, and to have been comprised of as many as 3,000,000,000 butterflies in a single flight.

THE AMERICAN WAY

REMOVE THAT APPENDIX

By George Peck

The shouting and the tumult have died—temporarily. As this is being written there are no major strikes in progress and none threatened for the very immediate future. The nation sits back with a sigh of relief, disaster having been narrowly averted, to indulge in wishful thinking to the effect that the worst is over and that labor-management strife is permanently ended.

The Congress, which was all hot and bothered and galvanized for action when the coal strike was on, a nation wide rail strike threatened and a maritime strike hanging in the offing, has sunk back into its former state of apathy and laissez-faire, as far as enacting remedial legislation is concerned.

The settlements of the General Motors, steel, rail, and coal strikes and the averting of the maritime strike, however, are but temporary adjustments—a "shot in the arm" to keep the patient alive and breathing, but still un-cured of his basic ailment.

The perilous situation through which the nation has just passed can be likened to a man stricken with an appendicitis attack. He calls in his physician, who has him x-rayed. The x-ray shows a diseased appendix, the only real cure for which is to chop it out. But, meanwhile, there has been succor from the stabling pain, due to the application of ice. The patient, temporarily relieved, heeds not the advice of his physician, does not have the diseased appendix removed, thus leaving himself subject to future disaster and suffering, perhaps premature death.

What we have done has been simply to apply ice to the wound of our industrial patient. He is still a mighty sick man, kidding himself because for the moment he feels no pain, he is cured. He still has his diseased appendix, which in his case, is the Wagner Relations Act. Until this sore spot in our industrial economy is removed, there can be no permanent labor management peace.

This Act, acclaimed by Union labor as the "Magna Charta," even today will, if not repealed, be the Frankenstein monster to destroy union labor. Its discriminatory provisions against the employer, sooner or later will destroy that employer. When that transpires, one of two things will happen to the worker. He will be out of a job, or he will be a slave working for the government, with his collective bargaining and strike rights just glorified memories of a former happier period.

The point the workers of this nation must realize is that what hurts the boss, sooner or later hurts around to hurting them. One of the irresponsible labor leaders, more forthright than his contemporaries, openly acknowledged that the Wagner Act hurts the boss when he said: "Sure, we know the Wagner Act favors us over management. It... that's why we're against changing it."

The permanent cure for industrial strife will not come from new labor laws. Such laws will only bring a flock of new bureaus and bureaucrats to administer them, more government controls, more public employees eating at the public trough. Through our history we have repeated laws when the x-ray showed they were a disease upon the body economic. The x-ray shows the Wagner Act, passed by Congress with the high hope that it would prevent industrial strife, has actually increased industrial strife. The Wagner Act has aggravated the wound, and the common sense thing to do now, is to repeal it.

Anything short of this will simply be applying ice to the wound, for a temporary palliative. For the future welfare of our industrial economy, our labor laws need an appendectomy. The appendix—the Wagner Labor Relations Act—must be removed.

Kathleen Norris Says:

Justice for the Baby

Bell Syndicate—WNU Features.

"Between now and your wedding day try to build up between Sylvia and Karl a friendship that may solve all this with no separation between you and the child at all."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

"FIVE years ago I wrote you about my expected college baby," writes Frances, from an Arkansas town. "This baby was the result of a winter of recklessness, I see that now. But I had joined a free thinking group in college, and the thought that a woman is not privileged to have a child and raise that child, without the force of a few words pronounced over her and some man by a justice of the peace, was ridiculous to me. Your advice was to have the baby privately, and give it out for immediate adoption, but I loved the thought of a child all my own, and determined to go home for the summer, acknowledge my baby openly, and try to persuade a supposedly open-minded circle of family and friends that things have changed, and the old narrow law against so-called illegitimacy is outgrown."

"Well, some of the circle saw things my way and some didn't. My dearest girl friend stuck to me and adored Sylvia, who is an exquisite child, now nearing five. My mother was wonderful, quiet and sympathetic, anxious for me to get in touch with the baby's father, which was out of the question, but helpful all through. Certain cousins and aunts turned up their noses. I got a good war job, made lots of money, and could do everything for Sylvia. My father died a few months after I got home, and Mother lived with me. Mother wanted me to tell people that the baby's father had been killed at two Jims, but I wouldn't lie."

"Jane, my friend, married, and her husband didn't like our friendship. I would never have believed that anything would change her, but the stubborn narrow man she married managed it. They have two children; he doesn't even want them to play with Sylvia."

"Well, here's the present problem. What nobody but myself even knew was that Sylvia's father was married when I met him; I did not know it until we had been lovers for some time. He and his wife came to our town a few weeks ago; they are childless, and they want Sylvia."

"Meanwhile, I have fallen truly in love with Karl, an engineer who is going to Norway for three years. He thinks it unwise for us to take the baby, and would be glad to have me give her over to her father. The question in this that nobody takes into account is my feeling for my beautiful, affectionate little girl, who has never been parted, she depends on me, and her possessive 'my mommy' is always on her lips."

"Her father will stand no half-measures. She must go to him unconditionally. She must not see me again, and believe, as she grows older, that she is his wife's child. I am torn two ways, agonized by this decision. The man I want to marry is in every way my ideal—strong, quiet, tender and wise. He is half Norwegian, and the prospect of life at a great construction plant in his father's country sounds good to me. Only about Sylvia is he

A CHILD'S FUTURE

Frances has a peculiarly difficult problem. She is about to be married to an engineer. They will go to Norway where he has a contract lasting several years. Everything would be splendid except for Frances's illegitimate daughter. The child is now five, and very cute and lovable. Frances has been able to care for her since she was born. Karl, Frances's fiance, doesn't want the child. He wants Frances to surrender Sylvia to her father, who is willing to take her, as he is married and childless.

This would seem to be a practical solution, but Frances doesn't like to be parted from her daughter, nor is it likely that Sylvia would be happy away from her mother.

Miss Norris replies that the child's happiness and future should be the first consideration of her mother.

adamant. We will have other children, he says, and he will never love her as he does them. "What is the best way out of this for us all?"

The best way out, Frances, was very possibly your surrender of the baby before you ever saw her face. If she is what you describe, charming and lovable, some adopted mother and father would all this time have been giving her a child's right, love and security. It was your decision that deprived her of this, and put you in today's position, with today's hard choice before you. Whatever you do, there is pain in it for you and in the solutions you suggest there seems to be small consideration for the child. Long ago she should have been placed beyond the reach of these disturbing and upsetting changes.

A married man who could have a love affair with a college girl doesn't sound too safe a guardian, and the wife who knew herself cheated will not make too loving a mother. Why not place this small girl with some kindly woman for a year, marry your Karl and go to Norway. Make him so loving and efficient a wife that he will want, some day, only to make you happy. When you get your child back, once in your home, Sylvia will make her own way.

Her own father and his wife seem to me unfit guardians. It would be a super-human wife indeed who could truly love the child of her husband by a younger woman. She has never had children, and would not understand Sylvia, nor his fatherly indulgence of Sylvia. Steer clear of them entirely, and between now and your wedding day, try to build up between Sylvia and Karl a friendship that may solve all this with no separation between you and the child at all.

Since you are independent enough to face the age-old crisis of Sylvia's birth five years ago, face this one too, always keeping in mind that nothing else matters except that the child shall be presently established in a loving and permanent home, with a chance to forget the wrongs and changes that have upset her babyhood.

Skin Cancer Cure

Radioactive phosphorus, applied with cotton blotting paper, has been used successfully for the treatment of skin cancers at the University of California medical school. It was emphasized that the treatment was applicable only to superficial skin cancers and warts and warned that it could not be applied to deep-seated tumors.

Dr. L. C. Bear revealed that 301 cases of superficial skin cancer and warts have been treated in "hot" medical research here since 1941.

Corn Cutlets.

(Serves 6)

½ cup thick white sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon paprika
2 hard-cooked eggs finely diced
1 cup cream-style corn

Combine ingredients in order given. Divide into six equal parts and shape into cutlets or patties. Roll in crushed cereal crumbs and brown in a small amount of drippings or fat, turning once. Serve with melted cheese, if desired.

Corn Sticks.

(Makes 14 corn sticks)

1 cup corn meal or water-ground corn meal
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 cup buttermilk or sour milk
2 tablespoons melted fat
1 egg, slightly beaten

Sift corn meal, salt, sugar, baking powder and soda together. Add buttermilk and fat to beaten egg. Add to the corn meal mixture all at once, stirring quickly and vigorously until just mixed. Place in hot, greased cornstick pans. Bake in a hot (425-degree) oven for 20 minutes or until done.

If you're looking for a hearty supper with a stick-to-the-ribs main dish and a light, summery dessert, you'll want to clip the following recipes to have on hand.

Savory Baked Beans and Hamburger.

(Serves 4)

2 tablespoons fat or drippings
½ cup sliced onions
¼ cup diced celery
½ pound chuck, ground
2½ cups baked beans or cooked kidney beans
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon powdered sage
½ cup water or canned tomato juice

Heat fat in skillet, then add onions, celery and ground meat. Cook uncovered for 10 minutes. Add remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly.

*Peach Melba.

(Serves 8)

2 cups fresh raspberries
½ cup currant jelly
½ cup granulated sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
1 tablespoon cold water
1 canned peach halves

Place one peach half, cut side up, in each sherbet glass, fill with ice cream and serve with sauce poured over the ice cream.

This sauce Melba may also be served over orange ice cream or lemon sherbet for delicious effect.

Mocha Peach Shake.

(Serves 4)

4 canned cling peach halves
2 teaspoons soluble powdered coffee
¼ cup hot water

When washing hollow handled knives do not allow them to remain too long in water as this might loosen them.

Colored chenille spreads should never be washed with other cottons even if they are color-fast. It is important, too, that the machine or tub be well washed first, for lint from other cotton clings to the chenille tufts and gives them a dull look you won't like.

Tins which are not badly stained can be polished well with brown paper that has been moistened in vinegar.

To avoid cloudy iced tea never pour hot tea over ice or place it in the refrigerator. Let the tea cool in room temperature first.

The stems of roses and other cut flowers should be cut regularly and slantwise with a sharp knife under warm, running water. Keep the bottom stem under water while the cut is being made.

Use old shower curtains to make aprons, bibs, place mats, or sack curtains for the bathroom.

To prevent ugly marks on your floors apply wax to the casters on your furniture.

To clean a soiled sponge, fresh lemon into it thoroughly. Rinse several times in lukewarm water.

Hang up towels to dry immediately after using them to prevent mildew. Never put a damp towel in the laundry bag or leave it in a heap on the bathroom floor.

WNU Features.

HERE we have Idaho—fabulous sunsets, lakes of gold and dreamy, purple mountains; million stars in the dark blue sky and moonlight on the sagebrush; canyons and ridges, sand dunes and crystal lakes; stunted desert brush and towering pines; waterfalls higher than Niagara and ridges deeper than the Grand Canyon; snow 20 feet deep among the pines and spruce; farms and cities amidst nature's spoiled loveliness; natural caves full of ice in the hot desert.

From the Canadian border on the north to the temperate Cache valley on the south, and from the frozen ion peaks on the east to the warm Pacific winds in the west valley, Idaho offers a variety of climate, topography and scenic wonder. It has miles of desert and arid table lands, but it also has more lakes than any has ever counted. It has alpine peaks where the snow never melts, and homes heated by water from natural hot springs.

No more interesting, romantic and pleasant area may be found on earth than Idaho. Yet from an automobile train window it may often appear to be a rolling waste, lonely and cruel. Unfortunately the main highways and railroad tracks wander too far from the beautiful spots in Idaho, and those who would know the "Gem of the Mountains" must take the side roads—and great will be their reward.

Idaho is a young state, with young and energetic people. They are not hampered by the heavy hand of tradition, nor restrained by the ghosts of their ancestors. Whether Basque shepherders, Mormon descendants, farmers from Nebraska, or recruits from the West, the people of Idaho are living proof of Western friendliness and hospitality. Western progressiveness, and Western determination to harness nature's resources for the good of all.

The early history of Idaho is bound up with that of the states of Oregon and Washington, but its tradition and lore has borrowed much from the Mormons of Utah, the cattlemen of Wyoming, and the miners of Montana. It drew from all its surrounding states and became the great melting pot of the Northwest.

Following the Lewis and Clark expedition, Idaho was the hunting and trapping paradise of early adventurers. Later thousands of persons crossed Idaho by way of the Oregon trail, following the Snake river through the desert. The ruins of thousands of wagons still remain, but the Oregon trail and one of America's greatest migrations added little to Idaho's development.

In 1850 gold was discovered in the Pierce City region and by the autumn of 1852 there were 30,000 persons near Lewiston. A greater discovery followed in the Boise basin, and within a year Idaho City had a population estimated at near 10,000. At the census of 1870, only 15,000 remained of the swarm of miners of the early '60s; but 200 million dollars in gold had been taken out of Idaho—the greatest record in history for a similar period of time.

It was the Mormons who founded Idaho's first permanent settlement in 1800. They believed they were in Utah when they called their village Franklin and made irrigation a fact in Idaho by building a canal three and a half miles long. They also established that year the first school for white children within the present boundaries of the state.

Agriculture made little headway, however, for the feverish industry of thousands exploring the earth for mineral treasures continued. Although the Idaho Territory was created in 1803, more lustrous years were to follow. Rich gold strikes were made in the Salmon River and in the Owyhee terrain, in the Coeur d'Alene, and elsewhere. Boom towns were erected overnight, and the days were rich in murders and hangings, feuds and melodramatic

ARNOLD WILLIAMS
Governor of Idaho
Governor Williams was born in Utah, but moved to Idaho in 1917. He was a member of the state legislature and lieutenant governor before becoming governor in 1945.

Northern Pacific railroad laid its rails across the Panhandle in 1880-82, and the Union Pacific-Oregon Short Line—crossed the southern part of the state in 1882-84. Its mines and forest were opened commercially, and Idaho was no longer a wild frontier.

When Idaho became a state in 1890 its valleys were soon home-steaded by sturdy stock from the Middle West. For each mining camp that became a ghost town, a new community appeared, built solidly on the development of Idaho's great natural resources. Idaho settled down, at last, to build its kingdom.

The northern part of Idaho reclaimed logged-off land, to become one of the most productive areas in the West. "Idaho white pine—and plenty of it" is the slogan of its lumbermen, and yellow pine grows broad and tall. Idaho's mines yield countless minerals, with more being discovered each year.

The Snake River valley and its drainage area has prospered under irrigation and reclamation, while lands beyond the irrigation ditches have been utilized for wheat and other grains. New irrigation projects are being opened, and Idaho's agriculture and livestock industries are thriving.

Idaho potatoes, famous all over the civilized world, are grown in desert soil enriched by centuries of sagebrush and other desert growth and touched by the magic of irrigation. Even cull potatoes are now utilized and made into industrial alcohol, or fed to livestock. Sugar beets thrive and alfalfa grows luxuriantly. Cattle and sheep are fattened on rich pastures and in feed lots, and dairy herds are found everywhere.

Only recently has Idaho come into prominence as a playground and recreation spot for people who are weary of make-believe life in cities. It offers year-around skiing, hunting, fishing, swimming, boating and other sports. Pheasants, ducks and geese are plentiful. There are antelope, deer, elk and other big game in abundance to assure the sportsman of his kill. From dog races at Ashton when the snow is deep, to summer boating on Payette lakes or fishing Pend d'Oreille, no other state exceeds Idaho in sports of the great outdoors.

New York capitalists and Hollywood movie stars have found in Sun Valley in the Sawtooth Mountains one of the world's finest recreation spots. In winter, skiing is the outstanding sport, with tobogganing and big game hunting following. In summer, the mountain streams near-by offer varieties of trout, the gamy cat fish of them all. Lakes and woods in the Stanley Basin afford boating, fishing, riding, hiking and camping.

Idaho is a state of mountains, valleys and deserts, with variety enough for everyone. The mountain range include Cabinet, Coeur d'Alene, Beaverhead and Bitter Root in the north; Salmon River, Sawtooth and Lost Rivers in the center of the state, and the Bear, Blackfoot and Snake River mountains in the southeast, with the Teton along the Wyoming line northward.

Shoshone Falls—46 feet higher than Niagara—pours its flood over a horseshoe-shaped rim in Snake River canyon. Twin Falls is another majestic sight, and American and Salmon Falls are also attractive to visitors.

Idaho offers the unusual—the almost unbelievable—in scenic wonders. The deepest canyon on the North American continent drops almost 8,000 feet below the rimrock of the Seven Devils ranges of mountains. The Big and Little Lost Rivers tumble down from mountain peaks to disappear into the porous volcanic desert, breaking into sunlight again as Thousand Springs in the Snake River gorge. Recent volcanic action is offered at Craters of the Moon, and Mount Borah, highest point in the state, carries coral limestone on its crest, lifted from the sea which was once three miles below.

The state of Idaho remains a part of the Great Northwest, rich in resources, sure of its future. The frontier spirit still lives in countless ways within its borders, ready to mount to thunderous zest in the development that seems sure to come.

Mount Borah, 12,665 feet, Idaho's highest mountain.

SHARPSHOOTERS

The natives of backwoods Missouri do more than provide food and shelter for summer visitors; they provide entertainment as well. In this endeavor, it must be admitted, they are assisted no end by the gullibility of the city folk, who don't seem to know a whooper when they hear one.

In summer the two Hooten boys were frequently observed by the visitors strolling through the woods, one carrying an old muzzle-loading shotgun, the other a claw-hammer. "What's the purpose of the hammer?" a city slicker will inquire. Immediately the hammer-bearer will burst into tears. The visitor persists in his questioning.

"Wal," finally explains the boy with the hammer, "we uns is so poor, stranger, we ain't got no money to buy shot, and so we hez to load this here gun with old rusty nails. Every squirrel we hits nowadays is nailed fast to the tree."

The hammer-bearer sobs bitterly. "Then, stranger," he continues, "that big so-and-so—" pointing to his brother, "makes me climb up the tree and pry the critter loose with this here hammer!"

COOLED HIM DOWN

"Ice, you know," remarked the teacher, "will keep things from being spoiled."

"That's not always true, teacher," remarked one of his brighter pupils.

"How so?" asked the teacher.

"Because last week I was out skating, but I slipped on the ice so much it spoiled my fun."

Postponed
After a few words, mostly spoken by the young wife, her hubby sprang to his feet.

"You've gone too far!" he exclaimed angrily. "This is our last quarrel. I'm going right out of your life."

"Oh, Henry, darling, where are you going?" she cried.

"Where I'll never trouble you again," he replied, as he started to open the front door of the little home in which they had such pride—until now. "I'll find a place where wild adventure will wipe out the memories of this moment—perhaps in the jungle—or on the stormy seas."

As he spoke he opened the door, then he closed it again and turned sternly to his wife.

"It's lucky for you it's raining!"

Speed Record
The grocer was disgusted with his clerk's delivery boy. "You're the laziest boy I ever saw," he said. "Isn't there anything you're quick at?"

The boy thought a moment and then replied. "Yassah... dey nin' anybody what kin git tired as fast as Ah kin!"

HORSING AROUND

The professor had been lecturing on mining engineering, and when he had finished he asked: "Would anyone like to ask any questions?"

"How," said the bright student, "do you calculate the horsepower of a donkey engine?"

Lending Library
"Say Pete—about that book I loaned you last month—"

"Sorry, Bill, but I lent it to a friend. Do you want it back?"

"Not for myself, but the fellow I borrowed it from says the owner is looking for it."

Between scenes of "Angel on My Shoulder," Claude Rains covered his own shoulders with a worn tweed coat. He's superstitious about it. He wore it on the "Casablanca" set—the picture won an Academy award. And on the set of "Caesar and Cleopatra" in London, for which he got the highest salary ever given an actor, $1,280,000.

"Happy Hollywood Homes" will be the title of a Columbia Screen Snapshot, showing film players and directors and their mates who've been married for more than 10 years. Producer Ralph Staub expects to have about 60 such couples in the picture. Unprejudiced observers think maybe he's stealing his chin out, since Hollywood marriages have a way of breaking up even after 10 years.

If a tune's danceable, singable and has an appealing idea, the chances are it's set for the "Hit Parade," according to Harry Warren, who wrote "On the Beach," "Tootsie" and "Santa Fe," "Down Argentine Way" and other hits. "Of course," he added, "a Bing Crosby or Frank Sinatra to sing it won't do any harm." He's currently writing the music for M-G-M's "Summer Holiday."

Walter Pidgeon ("Mr. Miniver," "Pierre Curie," etc.) will show, truck, do the Susy-Q and Big Apple with Claudette Colbert for a jitterbug routine in "The Secret Heart," now before the cameras at Metro. Quite a change for the dignified Mr. Pidgeon!

"Possessed" is the new title of the Warner Bros. picture starring Joan Crawford, known till now as "The Secret." It looks like another top-notch for her; Van Heflin plays opposite her, Raymond Massey and Joan Chandler have important roles.

Jenny Desmond sent a carton of his latest records to Princess Elizabeth of England at her request. She became a Desmond fan when he sang for her in Bedford with the Glenn Miller army air force band, and asked that copies of his first recordings be sent to her. It was reported later that Desmond was her "favorite crooner"; she'd heard him sing his "Soldier and a Song" over the armed forces network.

Meredith Willson has been named to the music advisory committee of the Atwater Kent radio auditions, one of the radio's oldest and most honored radio institutions, which was started in 1927, but was discontinued during the war. Resumed this year, it is designed to uncover young talent in singers and musicians, and has given a start to many a successful career.

ODDS AND ENDS—CBS News Reporter Bob Garrel has completed narration for a Columbia Pictures short, and executives plan to put him under a year's contract for similar picture shorts. . . . "Philo Vance" has been bought to replace Bill Gargan's "Murder Will Out" with the role of "Sergeant Heath" played by Humphrey Davis. . . . Dan Seymour, rotund character actor in "Clock and Dagger," used to be a circus strongman. . . . Bing Crosby has been notified that he's the favorite recall of American occupation troops in Europe; next in order—Frank Sinatra, Vaughn Monroe and the King Cole Trio, according to a poll.

Excessive Fat Seriously Handicaps Divers, Aviators

Excessive fat is a handicap to aviators, divers and others subjected to changing air pressure because fat, unlike hard muscle, absorbs and holds nitrogen, thus increasing their susceptibility to "bends," says Collier's. As fat is more buoyant than hard muscle, a man's excessive fat may be determined scientifically by the relationship between his normal weight and his weight under water. For example, while a 200-pound hard-muscled man may weigh 15 pounds under water, a 200-pound fat man may weigh only six pounds, the difference between the two weights of each man being the basis of an index to the density of his body.

I.; Mrs. Chester Sweet of Andover; Mrs. Bertram Faulkenham, Mrs. Theodore Gerger and children, Charles and Elizabeth, Mrs. Charles Ripley all of Rumford; John, Arthur, David and Mary Joyce Head and the hostess.

80th Birthday
Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Head entertained on Sunday in honor of Harry N. Head's eightieth birthday. A family dinner was enjoyed at noon and other relatives and friends called in the afternoon to wish him "many happy returns of the day."

Refreshments were served including a birthday cake with 80 candles. He received gifts and many cards.

Guests from out of town were Mrs. C. H. George, Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. King and Roger King from Barlett, N. H.; Mr. and Mrs. Dolmore Robinson of Norway; Miss Bertha Coburn of Needham, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred I. Howard and son of Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hall and daughter, Ruth of Bethel; Mrs. Doris Lord of Bethel and Miss Mabel Somes of Massachusetts.

A Friendly Message to Harry Head (One "oldtimer" to another)
1866 1946

In life's fair morn birthdays come slow
At noon we hate to see them go
When evening shadows gently fall
We'll wish for no birthdays at all
But whether the years go slow or swift
Round to us all do birthdays drift.

It matters not how swift or slow
Year after year away they go
You have had many a birthday too
And many your friends so
Staunch and true,
In youth's glad time you hastened along
And life was tuned to a merry song.

Each day's work was a task well done
Oft lightened by friends with Jokes and fun,
Many the friends who have walked
With you
Sturdy and honest, gentle and true.

Life for you held "ups" and "downs"
Fortune has dealt to you smiles
and frowns,
Sometimes your skies have been
dull and grey,
But sweet were the flowers along the way.

That "morrow's cup you have had to drain,
The lessons you learned were not in vain,
For more kindly the words to others given
And great are your treasures laid up in Heaven.

I am sure sometimes at evening's close,
And you stop work, for well
earned repose,
As half asleep, through dreams
soit haze,
You see again long gone birthdays.

For the "Spirit of Youth" has been
with you
Keeping you young life's journey through
Over you, Harry, his mantle fell—
That mantle wave "treats the Fairy's "apoll."

The "Spirit of Youth," I see him now
With his elfin face and his trishin bow,
As he bent above your cradle bed
Holding his mantle wide out spread.

With its magic threads of faith and light
Joy and gladness and friendship bright,
Peace and work and a helping hand often needed in this great land.

That fairy's mantle is still with you
And I will always be until life is through
The warp and woof still fast do bind

So to a fairy's deers you cannot grow old
Eighty years you have told they say
Eighty the mile stone along the way.
Not with ready smile and witty tongue
You cannot grow old you are always young!

And please not enough words in the world to say
All the birthday joy I wish you today!

The Golden Text is: "Into thine hand I commit my spirit: thou hast redeemed me, O Lord God of truth!" (Psalm 31: 5).

The citations from the Bible include the following passages: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed; And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free" (John 8: 31-32).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following selections from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Truth is an alternative in the entire system, and can make it every whit whole."
